AT A GLANCE

A plain-language summary. The numbered clauses below are what legally applies.

- Close your account from the deletion page. It does not require an email to anybody.
- You choose whether your notes are withdrawn or stay published with your name.
- Account data is deleted or anonymised within 30 days.
- Backups roll off within 35 days and are never used to restore a deleted account.
- Moderation and legal records are kept for 5 years, and that is the main exception.

1. Principles

- 1.1 We keep personal data only for as long as there is a stated purpose for holding it.
- 1.2 Each category of data has a defined retention period, published in this policy.
- 1.3 Where a period expires, data is deleted or irreversibly anonymised.
- 1.4 Anonymised data cannot be re-associated with you and is not personal data.
- 1.5 We do not retain data indefinitely on the basis that it might one day be useful.
- 1.6 This policy forms part of the Privacy Policy.

2. Retention periods

- 2.1 Account record -- while the account is open, then deleted or anonymised within thirty days of closure.
- 2.2 Password hash -- deleted immediately on closure.
- 2.3 Email address -- deleted within thirty days of closure, save where retained for a live legal matter.
- 2.4 Contributions -- as chosen by you on closure; see the following section.

- 2.5 Saved items, download history and reading history -- deleted on closure.
- 2.6 Server logs including IP addresses -- ninety days.
- 2.7 Security and authentication logs -- twelve months.
- 2.8 Moderation and enforcement records -- five years.
- 2.9 Takedown notices and counter-notices -- five years.
- 2.10 Correspondence with support -- twenty-four months.
- 2.11 Records relating to a live legal claim or investigation -- until the matter concludes, then five years.
- 2.12 Backups -- a rolling cycle of no more than thirty-five days.

3. Closing your account

- 3.1 You may close your account at any time from the account deletion page.
- 3.2 Closure does not require you to email anybody, give a reason, or speak to anybody.
A deletion route that requires a conversation is a retention tactic. This one is a page with a button on it.
- 3.3 We ask you to confirm, because closure cannot be undone.
- 3.4 On confirmation, access is disabled immediately and the account is queued for deletion.
- 3.5 Deletion completes within thirty days.
- 3.6 We send a confirmation to your email address when deletion completes, and then delete the address.
- 3.7 There is no waiting period, cooling-off period or reactivation window. If you want the account back, you create a new one.

4. What happens to your contributions

- 4.1 When you close your account you choose one of two outcomes for what you contributed.
- 4.2 Withdraw -- your notes, answers and comments are removed from the Service within seven days.
- 4.3 Leave published -- your notes remain available to students, attributed to your display name, and your account record is still deleted.
- 4.4 Leaving material published is a choice, never a default, and it is presented neutrally.
Other students may be mid-revision on a note. Offering the choice is right; making "leave it up" the pre-ticked option would not be.
- 4.5 If you make no choice, your contributions are withdrawn.
- 4.6 Where you choose to leave material published, we may anonymise the attribution on later request.
- 4.7 Material quoted or built upon by other users is not automatically removed when yours is.
- 4.8 Copies already downloaded by other people are outside our control and cannot be recalled.

5. Deleting individual items

- 5.1 You may delete a single note, answer or comment at any time without closing your account.
- 5.2 Deletion removes it from public view immediately and from our systems within seven days.

- 5.3 Deletion is not reversible.
- 5.4 You may edit rather than delete, which preserves the item's address and any links to it.
- 5.5 Deleting a note does not delete comments other people made on it, which are their contributions.

6. Backups

- 6.1 We take backups so that a failure does not destroy the library.
- 6.2 Backups are encrypted and access to them is restricted and logged.
- 6.3 Backups roll off on a cycle of no more than thirty-five days.
- 6.4 Deleted data may persist in a backup until that backup expires.
- 6.5 Backups are never used to restore a deleted account or deleted content.
- 6.6 If a backup is restored after an incident, deletions requested before the incident are reapplied.

Without this clause a restore would silently resurrect everything a person asked us to delete, which is the most common way deletion promises are broken in practice.

7. When we retain despite a deletion request

- 7.1 Where retention is required by law or by a lawful order.
- 7.2 Where the data relates to a live legal claim, investigation or regulatory matter.
- 7.3 Where the data is a moderation or enforcement record, for the published five-year period.
- 7.4 Where the data is necessary to prevent a closed account from being recreated to evade enforcement.
- 7.5 Where the data is necessary to protect a person from serious harm.
- 7.6 In each case we retain the minimum necessary, and only for the period stated.
- 7.7 Retained data is not published, is not used for any other purpose, and is access-restricted.
- 7.8 We tell you if we retain something you asked us to delete, and why, unless prohibited from doing so.

8. Exports and requests

- 8.1 You may request a copy of everything we hold about you in a portable, machine-readable format.
- 8.2 We provide it within thirty days and we do not charge.
- 8.3 We may ask you to verify your identity first.
- 8.4 An export includes your account record, your contributions and your activity data.
- 8.5 An export excludes data that would disclose another person's personal information.
- 8.6 Requests should go to legal@lacspace.com.
- 8.7 If we cannot meet a request in full, we say which part and why.

9. Inactive accounts and closure of the Service

- 9.1 We do not delete accounts merely for being inactive.
- 9.2 If we ever introduce an inactivity policy, we will give at least ninety days' notice by email before acting on it.

- 9.3 If the Service is discontinued, we will give at least thirty days' notice and provide an export route.
- 9.4 On discontinuation, personal data is deleted within ninety days of closure unless a retention exception applies.
- 9.5 Contributors will be told before their material stops being available.

Version history

v1.0 - 29 August 2026

- Initial publication.
- Published a retention period for every category of data rather than describing retention generally.
- Added the choice between withdrawing and leaving contributions published, defaulting to withdrawal.
- Committed to reapplying deletions after a backup restore.
